Republican State Convention!

At a meeting of the State Central Committee, held at the city of Parkersburg, on February 23, 1892, it was ordered that a State Convention be held at the city of Martinsburg, on THURSDAY, the 5th day of May, 1892, to elect four (4) delegates-at-large and four (4) alternates-at-large to the Republican National Convention, to be held at the city of Minneapolis, Minnesota, on Tuesday, the 7th day of June, 1892, to nominate candidates to be supported for the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States; and also, in view of the change in the arrangement of the several Senatorial districts of this State, to elect members of the State Republican Central Committee, consisting of one person from each Senatorial district.

The Executive Committee of each county is requested to take the steps to secure each county representation in said State Convention, as well as in the Congressional District Conventions to elect district delegates and alternates to said National Convention, and it is recommended that each county elect one delegate to said State Convention for each one hundred (100) votes or fraction thereof greater than fifty (50) cast therein for President Harrison in 1888.

The co-operation is desired of all Republican voters and all other voters who favor the policy of protection to American laborers, farmers and manufacturers, the policy of reciprocity, a sound currency, the cause of good government in the Nation, State and County, and who favor economy and reform in the State government of West Virginia and the several public institutions thereof.

The Congressional District Conventions above referred to will be held as follows: First district at Clarksburg, on May 6; Second district at Keyser, on May 4; Third district at Hinton, on May 3; Fourth district at Point Pleasant, on April 29.

AUGUSTUS POLLOCK, Chairman.
 Wm. M. O. DAWSON, Secretary.

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL District Convention.

It is ordered that a District Convention of Republicans, and all others who favor the policy of protection to American laborers, farmers and manufacturers and a sound currency, shall be held at Clarksburg, on May 6, 1892, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purpose of choosing two delegates and two alternate delegates, to represent the First Congressional district in the National Republican Convention to be held in the city of Minneapolis, in the State of Minnesota, on the 7th day of June, 1892, for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice-President, to be voted for at the next National election, and for transacting such other business as may be brought before said convention.

The Executive Committee of each county is requested to take early steps to have each county represented at said Convention. It is recommended that each county select one delegate for each one hundred (100) votes or fraction over fifty (50) cast therein for President Harrison in 1888.

W. E. STATHERS, Chairman.
 J. C. BRADY, Secretary.

THE approaching contest is rendered especially important by reason of the industrial and financial policies of the Government being at stake. The popular decision on these issues is of great moment and will be of far-reaching consequence.

James G. Blaine.

Great Oration on Great Occasions.

Chaney M. Dewey is to deliver the address at the laying of the corner stone of the Grant monument, in anticipation of which event the New York Advertiser says: "Let Mr. Dewey identify himself with the memory of the great soldier and his monument, even as Mr. Lincoln's name is associated with the shaft in the cemetery at Gettysburg."

The great effort of the Gettysburg occasion was made by Mr. Evarts. The immortal success was achieved by President Lincoln. Mr. Evarts delivered a fine oration, of a length thought to be required by the event. Mr. Lincoln spoke with a brevity unusual for such an occasion, and at the time his remarks were thought to be altogether inadequate, so much so that the critical friends who listened to him were disappointed, not to say mortified.

Nobody remembers the long oration of that day; few recall so much as that it was delivered. Mr. Lincoln's little talk has taken its place among the English classics, a model of a pure and forceful style, of noble thought and lofty patriotism. It will live while anything remains of the language in which it was spoken, for it is one of the sublimest utterances that ever fell from human lips, and as simple as it is sublime.

Mr. Dewey is an orator of uncommon ability, and he may identify himself with the Grant monument, which may he live to see completed; but that he will deliver an oration comparable with Mr. Lincoln's Gettysburg gem, is to the last degree improbable.

He has a great subject, but he has not the inspiration of the contemporaneous making of great history of which himself is the central figure.

The Comradeship of Journalists.

The notable feature of the New York Chamber of Commerce dinner to Mr. Whitelaw Reid was the cordial participation of his brethren of the press. Those who could be present spoke of him in terms of brotherly kindness and professional admiration.

Mr. Waterson, in sending his regrets, spoke of Mr. Reid as his "old and beloved friend." Mr. Dana expressed his great satisfaction that such an honor had been conferred on so distinguished a member of the journalistic profession.

Partisan dividing lines, business rivalries, did not stand in the way.

It was not always so among journalists, it is not now so everywhere, but with the growth in power and importance of the press there is a broadening of sympathies between the men who make the press what it is.

Differing in opinion, competing in business, it is no longer the mark of the journalist to denounce "the meanly cur who runs the apology for a newspaper across the street."

And the more respect journalists show for each other, the more they command that public respect which is grateful to all men.

Republican Presidential Nomination.

It is interesting to note that where it was supposed that President Harrison would encounter very serious opposition delegates are being chosen in his favor. There are various possible explanations of this, but the short-cut explanation is that President Harrison's renomination is seen to be a foregone conclusion.

Those who would prefer somebody else if they could find a stronger man are not forthcoming with their stronger man. There is none. Mr. Blaine out of the way by his own choosing, President Harrison stands head and shoulders above every other Republican as an available man.

There are other strong men, but circumstances make Harrison the strongest to-day; and between now and the assembling of the convention there can be no change that will materially alter the situation.

The President is strong with the party for the reasons that have made him strong with the country. No partisan opponent can show a blunder on the part of this administration. There will be plenty of assaults, as there have been criticisms, but the history of the administration is so fresh that the people are not misled.

The Harrison administration has had to deal with foreign complications unusual in number and gravity, and in all these matters it has shown a fine diplomatic sense which challenges the respect of the world and the admiration of the people of the United States. The administration of domestic affairs has been equally successful.

From whatever point of view it may be examined, the Harrison administration has been a success. The head of the administration has grown on the people. He was nominated and elected as a hope. To-day he is the realization of a hope. He has more than met every expectation. His study has been to strengthen his party by serving his country acceptably, and this he has done with the highest success.

It is as true as anything else that may be said of President Harrison that every day adds to his hold on the country. It would be very strange if this were without impression on his party.

The national convention will renominate President Harrison with an enthusiasm that will show in what esteem his party holds him. This is the inevitable. Whoever opposes it will be whistling against the wind.

The Restriction of Immigration.

The INTELLIGENCER's earnest advocacy of such a restriction of immigration as shall protect the country from the flood tide that is pouring in, has brought from all classes and conditions of people the heartiest response. Commendation comes from the rural districts, from the mining regions, from men who employ and from men who work for wages.

Nowhere has the idea taken firmer root than among the foreign-born citizens who are here to stay and who appreciate the terrific pressure on the other side of the ocean that is forcing the quantity and quality of the immigration of the day.

The proposition to restrict immigration is properly regarded as a necessary measure of protection that will fit in logically with the system of a protective tariff. It is seen to be illogical to let in half a million of human beings a year while we are trying to keep out the competing products of the labor of the millions of wage-earners who are left behind on the other side.

It has been asked why the people of this country have submitted so long to the evils now complained of. One answer is that the evils have increased with the increase of immigration. Another answer is that these evils were full upon us before they were generally appreciated.

Nearly ten years ago the INTELLIGENCER raised the cry of warning, but that was ahead of the public appreciation, and there were no such responses as there are to-day. On the contrary the politicians feared that the INTELLIGENCER had struck a note that would make party discord. There are no such fears to-day, so far as we are advised. The people are pushing the politicians and the politicians are feeling the impulse.

It would be well if every party would insert in its national platform a plank favoring the restriction of immigration; not a dodging plank nor a dodging measure, but a plank that will mean the passage of a measure that will do the thing the people want done.

Thus far no better suggestion has been advanced than that early advanced by the INTELLIGENCER, that a good stiff head tax shall be imposed on everybody who desires to become one of us. This is practical and cannot be dodged.

Once more some folks who have use for Mr. Blaine's name want the Republican party to understand that Mr. Blaine will accept if nominated. Mr. Blaine will not accept under any circumstances. About this there is not the shadow of a doubt.

Now there is a polycycle. It is also an omnibus. If there were not enough of it to make it a polycycle it would be a tricycle. Every passenger is to work his way and the polycycle will do the rest. It will come very handy to persons with large families.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN says that when he begins training he will not drink a drop. Which suggests that it would be well for the Big Fellow if he were to make arrangements to keep himself in training "until Gabriel blows his trumpet in the morning."

Mr. CAMDEN will note with regret that before he had time to get on the track of his alleged declination there was a disposition to accept it with too much serious previousness. What a time the politicians do have.

Mr. CLEVELAND has reason to thank Governor Russell, of Massachusetts, for his Spartan determination not to allow the national convention to be stampeded by the use of his lofty name. This may save Mr. Cleveland.

ALL Europe stands in dread of the May Day celebrations. In this happy land we are not afraid of a whole month of May days. "Three cheers for the Red, White and Blue!"

The West Virginia delegation to Minneapolis will be for Harrison. "No others need apply."

STATE POLITICS.

That Democratic Reevaluation.

It would be difficult to estimate the entire expenso put upon the taxpayers of West Virginia by the Democratic revaluation of land. First, we may count the salary of the curbstone assessors. Secondly, the number of extra sessions of the county courts for the purpose of equalizing the valuations, which extra sessions were rendered necessary by the gross ignorance and dense stupidity of these same curbstone assessors, and last, but not least, we must take into consideration the increase in taxes rendered necessary by the increased valuation.

Ill Concealed Joy Before Camden's Denial.

Martinsburg Statesman (Dem.).

The withdrawal of ex-Senator Camden from the canvass for the senatorship, will be read with interest and approval by our people, as it not only removes all opposition to the reelection of Senator Faulkner, but will remove a source of weakness to the party in the coming fight. The party will now present an united front to the enemy. Camden's conduct is worthy of his past record and reputation as a noble, unselfish Democrat. We nominate him for governor.

The Passenger Retired.

Ceruleo Advance.

An old darkey was standing on the platform as a C. & O. train came to a halt, and a facetious Democratic passenger on the Pullman hailed him.

"I say, uncle," he inquired, "are you a Democrat?"

"No, sah, boss, I ain't," he replied with a smile, taking off his hat, "but Ise gettin' dar. I done been in jail a 'yar for stealin' a ole tumble down mule, an' been fo' weeks in de calaboose for gittin' drunk."

Mr. Passenger retired hurriedly, and the crowd gave him the laugh.

A New Republican Paper.

Charleston Gazette.

Charleston is to have a simon pure Republican weekly newspaper, the first issue to be put out next Wednesday morning. The proprietors and editors are John W. Jarrett and W. E. Forsyth, and the paper will be conducted under the firm name of Jarrett & Forsyth. These gentlemen are practical printers and staunch Republicans. The name of the paper will be West Virginia Republican, and will consist of four pages, eight columns to the page, and will be a journal devoted to the advancement of true Republican principles.

Mr. Powell for Delegate.

Morgantown Post.

Laura C. Powell, the industrious, level-headed and deserving editor of the Fairmont West Virginian, is being urged by some of his friends as a candidate for delegate from this congressional district to the National Republican convention at Minneapolis. The Post is glad to see this movement in the interest of a worthy man. It is about time that more men of Brother Powell's ability and worth were being recognized.

Dover Will Distribute the Seeds.

Parkersburg State Journal.

Hon. Andrew Edmiston, of Weston, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the First district against John Oh! Pendleton (or John O'Pendleton, just as you please). Black Dover, or some other good Republican, will distribute the postoffices and garden seeds, but the Democrats would add greatly to the dignity and standing of the canvass by nominating the Weston man instead of the Wheeling manikin.

A Just Recognition.

Huntington Herald.

Mr. Hart, of the Wheeling INTELLIGENCER, has been favorably mentioned for delegate at large to the National Republican convention. This would be a just and appropriate recognition of the eminent party services of Mr. Hart, no better selection could be made, and it is to be hoped the suggestion will meet with the hearty approval of Republicans all over the state.

Elkins the Favorite.

Fayette County Journal.

It has been plainly demonstrated that Hon. Stephen B. Elkins is not seeking the nomination for governor of West Virginia on the Republican ticket. But it is believed that he will accept the nomination if tendered him. Mr. Elkins is the favorite; he is a great man and will not disappoint the Republicans of West Virginia. Let the Elkins boom roll on and grow louder.

Free and Untrammelled.

Greenbrier Independent (Dem.).

Let us send an unrestricted delegation to Chicago. The situation is such that it is simply impossible now to say who is the most available candidate. The delegates to the national convention should therefore be free to exercise their best judgment in the choice of candidates when, after consultation with their brethren from all parts of the country, they shall be able to reach a proper conclusion.

A Good Man.

Weston World.

We have recently understood that Gen. I. H. Duval, of Brooke county, will be a candidate for auditor on the Republican ticket. We have known Mr. Duval for many years, and can say he is competent in every sense of the word, and not a better man in the state could be nominated.

Deserves Recognition.

Parkersburg Sentinel (Dem.).

It seems pretty certain now that Andy Edmiston will contest with John O. Pendleton for the congressional nomination in the First district. Andy is a good Democrat, a strong party worker, and he has plenty of brains. He is deserving of recognition at the hands of the party.

None Could be Better.

Parkersburg Journal.

Gen. I. H. Duval, of Brooke county, will probably be a candidate for the Republican nomination for auditor. A better nomination could hardly be made.

A SLUGGISH STREAM.

It Gets Foul and Poisonous Unless It Is Kept Constantly Flowing.

At this season of the year people feel more or less weak, run down, wearied and depressed. It has been commonly supposed that it is due to impurities of the blood, and that only by purifying the blood can good health be secured. Is this true? Let us see. The blood gets impure because it is sluggish. How does a stream get impure, with green scum and poisons on the top? Simply because it doesn't run. A sluggish stream is not impure, but a stagnant or sluggish stream always is. If, therefore, you would keep your blood pure, keep it moving, keep it throbbing. The moment it begins to be sluggish, it will begin to be impure, and you will feel the effects in tired, weak feelings, depressed emotions, and a thousand and one troubles which always follow. The proper way to keep the blood stirring is by the use of a pure stimulant in moderation. Stimulate it gently, and it will keep in constant, healthy motion, and good health will follow. There is but one way in which this can be done, and that is by the use of the purest and best stimulant you can find, preferably whiskey, and there is but one absolutely pure, medicinal whiskey known to the world, and that is Duffy's Pure Malt. Scientists admit this, the doctors all confirm it. It is more generally used to-day than any other whiskey which the world has ever seen, and it is popular only through its merits. Do not let your druggist or grocer deceive you by giving you something "just as good." "Something they can recommend," etc. When any dealer says this, he has an interested motive, which usually is, to sell you something cheap and inferior, on which he can make more money. Do not be so deceived.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

A machine has been introduced in Germany for picking up street sweepings. This machine, which is drawn by horses, takes up in its forward motion the moist street debris of mud which has been deposited in streaks by the preceding sweeper. The frame of the machine carries, suspended from the rear axle, an iron trough of half cylindrical shape, about four feet in length and nearly three feet wide. At the inside of the rear wheel an open paddle wheel is attached, which takes up the sweepings and drops them into the trough. A small plow at the front serves to narrow the strip of sweepings, which may possibly have been scattered somewhat by the hoofs of the horses drawing the machine. When the trough is filled it can be instantly dumped at any required spot by means of a crank and chain arrangement. It is stated that this machine, which is easily drawn by two horses and managed by one man, can remove from four to six miles of double rows of sweepings in a day.

One curious feature about the climate of Southern Arizona is that while the heat in the daytime is almost unbearable and frequently drives people mad, the temperature at night is delightful, so cool, in fact, one has to sleep under heavy blankets for comfort.

The average production of man, woman and child in the United States increased in the thirty years between 1850 and 1880 from about twenty-five cents a day to forty cents a day, an increase of over sixty per cent.

French projectors propose to connect the Mediterranean with the Soudan by running southward from Algeria. A number of artesian wells have converted portions of the desert into fertile oases.

It is said that some French reporters now take notes at night by the light of a tiny incandescent lamp attached to the pencil.

PERSONAL POINTS.

According to the Publisher's Weekly Napoleon Bonaparte, Washington, Longfellow, Daniel Webster, Grant, Bismarck, Mark Twain, Jay Gould, ex-President Hayes and James G. Blaine all tried the book canvassing business in early life.

The little Crown Prince William of Prussia will be ten years old on the 6th of May, and, according to the customs of the reigning family, he will on that day enter the First regiment of the Foot Guards and receive the order of the Black Eagle.

Some of the newspapers are talking of the late Samuel J. Tilden as "the richest American lawyer." The Boston Traveler says this causes a smile on the faces of some of the friends of the late Sydney Bartlett.

Mrs. Custer's ventures as a lecturer receive commendations from critical journals. She has just been giving a talk in Springfield, Mass., on "Garrison Life on the Frontier."

Dr. Vaughan, the successor to Cardinal Manning as archbishop of Westminster, has had five brothers in the Roman Catholic priesthood, while several of his sisters are nuns.

Dr. Mary P. Jacobi, in New York, and Dr. Mary Hoxon, in Washington, are each reputed to earn $40,000 a year at their profession.

It is thought that Mr. Justice Lamar's wretched health is largely due to his great absorption of his books.

Patti has a watch no greater than a ten cent piece in circumference, which is said to be worth $1,000.

A COWARDLY POLICY.

The "Register" Advises West Virginia Congressmen to Straddle the Silver Issue.

Wheeling Register.

We believe the West Virginia delegation will do their party a great service and themselves credit by voting to-morrow to postpone the consideration of the bill at this time. Such a vote would not commit them to any course, and it would simply put them on record of placing the question on the shelf for the present, and when it belongs until more vital and important legislation is considered.
